WELCOME TO SECOND GRADE OPTIONAL SUMMER READING LIST

We encourage all students to go to their local public library. Check out other programs available - films, story hours, etc.

The following suggestions are from Lorraine Bentley, former children’s librarian at Wheaton Public Library, past president of the Catholic Library Association of the Archdiocese of Washington, and lecturer in children’s literature at Trinity College.

“FOR PARENTS”

Fox	READING MAGIC: Why Reading Aloud to our Children Will Change Their Lives Forever
Hearne	CHOOSING BOOKS FOR CHILDREN
Lewis and Mayes	VALERIE AND WALTER’S BEST BOOKS FOR CHILDREN - A lively, opinionated guide. (Amazon)
Trelease	READ-ALOUD HANDBOOK
Keaton	IMAGINING FAITH with KIDS (Pauline Books and Media)

Getting your children and books together – a few ideas:

1. Read Yourself! Let your children see you read.
2. Read what your children are reading.
3. Turn off the TV! Set aside time for each family member to read and enjoy.
4. Read aloud as a family. Your children’s librarian at your local library branch will be happy to help you select books your entire family will enjoy.
5. Talk about the books you are reading.
6. Visit your local public library branch regularly. Help your children select book ask the librarian for help when you need it. Take advantage of the programs offered.
7. Show that books are special; give them as gifts.

8. Relate books to family activities and events--a vacation trip, a new pet, visiting a museum, etc. Mary Quattlebaum has written Underground Train about a trip on Metro's Red Line.

REMEMBER: The public library offers many services, and they are free of charge!

Most Montgomery County libraries have shelves of easy-to-read books with yellow tape on the bindings; many have "Step-Up" books marked with blue tape. Start with these; if they are too easy, ask the librarian for suggestions. Remember the five-finger test: read a whole page aloud and put a finger over every word that gives you trouble. (Proper names do not count.) If all five fingers go down, this is a book to have a grown-up read to you.

This year you have read many books that have won the Caldecott Medal. Look for other works by the same illustrators, as well as books by authors you have studied - Aiki, Dr. Seuss, Else Homelund Minarik, David McPhail, and Bernard Waber.

RELIGIOUS READING

The Holy Twins: Benedict and Scholastica by Kathleen Norris was illustrated by Tomie De Paola. Jerry Pinkney won a Caldecott Honor medal for his Noah's Ark. From Paulist Press, A Walk through Our Church by Gertrud Mueller Nelson contains the vocabulary of worship in preparation for first communion. Most, if not all of these, are in the public library. Barnes and Noble in Gaithersburg and Rockville have an excellent selection of children's Bibles and books for spiritual reading.

These are merely a short sampling of the treasures awaiting you at our local public libraries. The librarians at your branch may suggest other books by the authors listed or books I have not included – there isn't room for everything in this book list. If your Montgomery County public library doesn't own something you want, ask the librarian about interlibrary loan.

Barnes and Noble in Rockville and Gaithersburg, and Politics and Prose in Washington, D.C. frequently host children's authors and illustrators and have other interesting activities. Check "Book World" in the Washington Post on Sundays for coming events at the above stores.

Children enjoy getting mail. Consider a subscription to a magazine (Highlights for Children; and the Cricket magazine group-Spider) as a birthday, or end of year school gift. This type of reading prepares children for the type of reading most people do as adults. Choose magazines that reflect your family's hobbies and interests. Take into account ages and developmental levels.

Practice throwing, catching, and jumping rope this summer. There are many books of games, songs, and rhymes for these activities on the Dewey Decimal Number 780 shelf at the library; nursery rhymes are near fairytales -Dewey Decimal Number 398.2

HAVE A HAPPY SUMMER, READING!
